

How to Communize the World's Richest Capitalist Country

By Samuel L. Blumenfeld

How do you turn the world's richest capitalist nation into a communist state? Simple. First you take control of the country's education system and spend ten decades dumbing down the population so that when the right time comes they won't be able to tell the difference between socialism and capitalism, or communism and freedom.

Then you get a charismatic Senator elected President who hides the fact that he is a communist, uses deception to seduce the electorate, and promises changes that will transform America. The public eats it up because they are ignorant of basic constitutional principles and lack the ability to figure out things for themselves.

But there were many intelligent Americans who suspected what was about to happen, but indulged in some wishful thinking. They assumed that once elected Barack Hussein Obama would become more of a centrist in order to gain the support of Republicans and conservatives. After all, he was a good family man, and seemed to be somewhat pragmatic. But it didn't take long before this communist in the White House showed his true colors.

He and his cohorts in Congress decided to concentrate their efforts on enacting a national healthcare system that would free the government from the constraints of the constitution and enable the communists in the government to impose greater state control over the lives of each citizen.

First you have to get communists in positions of total power in Washington, which is what Obama and the so-called Democrats have done. The American people, in their ignorance elected them. Those who elected him did not know they were about to put a communist in the White House. They assumed he was a liberal who wanted to change America for the good.
