Michael Farris
President
Patrick Henry College
Purcellville, VA 20132

Dear Michael,

First I want to commend you on the founding and growth of Patrick Henry College, which in fifty years will, no doubt, be as large and influential as any of our so-called Ivy League schools. Christians who wish to see God honored will give their substance to a college that honors God and raises up generations of true, vital believers. The fact that the college is located near the nation's capital and that its students will apprentice in the halls of Congress is indicative of the growing influence the Bible will have on our national legislators.

As you know, one of the most influential liberal men in Congress is Barney Frank who represents the 4th Congressional District in Massachusetts. He is the most visible promoter of the Gay Agenda, and we conservatives in Massachusetts would like nothing better than to see him defeated in the coming election.

Fortunately, we have a candidate on our side who may be able to make that happen. He is Chuck Morse, a conservative businessman and talk-show host, whom I have known for over eight years. Chuck, a resident of the 4th District, decided to run against Frank because he could no longer take that arrogant ultraliberal who even voted against the Amber Alert bill that provides greater protection for children from kidnappers.

Chuck has also been a great defender of homeschooling, and I've had many opportunities to discuss the values and benefits of homeschooling on his talk show. Frank, on the other hand, has been endorsed by the N.E.A. and shares their views on homeschooling.

In your various efforts to alert homeschoolers to the need to support pro-homeschool candidates, I hope that you can put in a word for Chuck. Defeating Frank would be seen nationally as a repudiation of the Gay Agenda. Since Frank will get massive financial support from gays across the country, Chuck needs all the financial help he can get from those who want to make Frank's defeat a reality. Thus, what happens in the 4th District on Election Day will indicate which constituency is stronger, the gay or the Christian. Please let me know your thoughts on this urgent matter.

In His Service,
